INTRODUCTION TO THE MAJOR

The Middle Eastern Languages and Cultures (MELC) major is the study of the languages, literature, history, and cultures of the Middle East from antiquity to modern times. MELC offers language programs in Arabic, Hebrew, Persian, and Turkish, and in the ancient languages of Egyptian, Sumerian, Akkadian, Aramaic, and Iranian. Students can explore the interconnected worlds of ancient Egypt, Mesopotamia, and their neighbors, as well as the modern literatures and diverse cultures of the modern Middle East. The major also offers study in pre-modern and modern Jewish, Christian, and Islamic traditions. Students will have an opportunity to participate in a discovery experience that is innovative, collaborative, transdisciplinary, and features digital research.

MAJOR SPECIALIZATIONS

The major in Middle Eastern Language and Cultures offers two specializations: 1) Languages and Literature and 2) Middle Eastern Worlds. Students in the Languages and Literature specialization study the modern Middle Eastern languages of Arabic, Persian, and Hebrew. The Middle Eastern Worlds specialization focuses on the maternal, intellectual, and religious histories and cultures of the region from ancient to modern times.

In addition to the major program, the department offers a minor in MELC, as well as minors in Arabic, Hebrew, Persian, and Turkish.

AMPLIFY YOUR MAJOR

- Pursue study abroad opportunities through Berkeley Study Abroad.
- Join a professional association such as the Middle East Studies Association.
- Support your language study with a FLAS award, Boren Scholarship or Critical Language Scholarship, and the Ambassador Stevens Scholars Project.
- Consider doing an honors thesis in Middle Eastern Languages and Culture.

"Graduates can go on to study languages, literature, and policy at the graduate level, but they are also particularly well equipped for careers in law and international business."

— Alex George, Arabic Major, Class of 2017
